Learn how to put your passion to work— on your schedule

We know you gravitated toward public service because of your passion to make a difference. But more than just the drive to serve, practical knowledge and applied learning help you bring your ideas to life. Unlike other Master of Public Administration programs, we offer a curriculum built for the real challenges of public administration. You won't find us teaching hypotheticals. Instead we focus on topics like data analysis, public-private partnerships, and measuring outcomes.

It's a new world for public and nonprofit organizations. Leaders are constantly faced with challenges requiring thought leadership to act as a change agent. The Executive Master of Public Administration program provides graduates with a new framework and strategy to succeed.

- + Earn an OHIO MPA, the same degree awarded to full-time residential students
- + Program is optimized to provide maximum flexibility for working professionals, enabling students to juggle busy careers and home lives
- + Courses meet just three weekends per semester at our new Dublin Center, with a unique combination of residency-based learning and online interaction
- + Two-year, 36 credit hour program with no GRE required.

Learn Today, Applicable Tomorrow

As the only Executive MPA program in Central Ohio, and one of the few in the state of Ohio, the OHIO Executive MPA is immediately applicable to your career, even while you're in the program.

- + Taught by award-winning faculty, many who are also working professionals, the program is a unique combination of residency-based classroom learning and online interaction.
- + Executive MPA is cohort based, where you will develop relationships and professional connections with your classmates over the two-year period.
- + Face-to-face class meetings are held during residencies three weekends each semester at Ohio University's Dublin Center, 6805 Bobcat Way Dublin, Ohio 43016. These classes bring all cohort members and faculty together in one location for collaboration.
- + Guest speakers from the public sector are occasionally invited to join for lunch/dinner over the course of the program.

Accelerate Your Career

Executive MPA students learn to apply public management skills critically and creatively to solve real-world problems for their specific career path:

- + Nonprofit/Non-governmental organization
- + Public sector
- + Local, state or national government
- + Active duty and veterans of U.S. Armed Forces
- + Law enforcement
- + Public safety services
- + Public agencies

A Master of Public Administration can also easily transition to the private sector. Your skills will be applicable to private sector positions, especially in industries that work closely with public organizations such as healthcare, law and education. With an MPA degree, you can put your strategic planning, communication, project management and budgeting skills to work in leadership positions normally reserved for MBA grads.
